SMILING WHILE THEY WORK on the job of signing $3,335,000 in bonds for construction of six residence halls for men at Southern Illinois University are John Page Wham, Centralia, chairman of the SIU board, and Melvin C. Lockard, Cobden, secretary. The bonds have been sold to the U. S. Housing and Home Finance Agency in the largest single transaction of its kind since the agency was established. Using signature machines in the offices of the Columbian Bank Note company, Chicago, Wham and Lockard signed 18 bonds at a time. The new building group at Southern will include a dining hall. The buildings, financed in part by $1,585,000 in state appropriations, will be self-liquidating. (SIU News Photo)

GOP Divided on Need for Early Ike Statement

Leaders Believe President Will Seek Re-Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans today were split over whether President Eisenhower should give a quick public reaffirmation of his earlier announcement that he will run for a second term.

GOP leaders believe almost unanimously that Mr. Eisenhower will seek re-election despite his illness. But they are divided on how soon he should restate his intention.

Some Republicans, including members of Congress, were said to be in "no hurry" for the President to make an early statement. They see no reason for him to issue a statement while he is in the hospital — where he will be at least another week, and probably longer.

Others Reported Uneasy

Other Republicans, however, were reported uneasy over mounting talk questioning the availability of the President for the GOP nomination.

The "say it soon" group would like a presidential declaration during a meeting here Friday of Republicans slated to plan arrangements for the party's Aug. 20 convention in San Francisco. But the White House said no such declaration would be sent to the Friday meeting.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty Wednesday put a "crystal ball" label on a report that a White House official expects Mr. Eisenhower to make a public statement soon after he leaves Walter Reed hospital. This official reported some uneasiness in Republican ranks and predicted that the President's statement would be issued sometime between July 4-15.

No Hospital Politics

Hagerty insisted that "nobody" had discussed politics with the President since he became ill early on the morning of June 8. But newsmen noted that Hagerty had not ruled out a presidential statement before the middle of July.

A medical bulletin issued at 8:10 a. m. said Mr. Eisenhower had "a good night's rest" and "his condition continues to progress satisfactorily." It added that "his spirits and morale are high."

Issue Permits for Four Oil Drilling Tests in County

The state department of mines and minerals issued four permits for oil well drilling in Saline county between June 11 and 16.

The permits: To Olen D. Sharp, Evansville, for the Rose Adams No. 1, SW 26-88-56 (Brushy); To Sun Oil Co., Evansville, for the Justin Reynolds No. 3, SW 26-88-56 (Brushy); To R. W. Portis, Evansville, for the Moore No. 1, NE 36-88-56 (Raleigh); To Eakle and Holder Petroleum Co., Evansville, for the Riegel Unit No. 1, NW 26-88-56 (Brushy).

Lincoln Scholar Claims He Has Hit Million Dollar 'Jack Pot' in Collection

CHICAGO (AP)—A Lincoln scholar said today he has hit a million-dollar jackpot of "lost" Revolutionary and Civil War letters and documents.

The forgotten historical treasure trove, left to gather dust in a bank vault for years, includes letters written by George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton.

The Lincoln Scholar, Ralph G. Newman, said he acquired the collection "for a very substantial sum of money" from Mrs. Wiley R. Reynolds of Palm Beach, Fla., widow of a former Michigan industrialist and Florida bank owner who died in 1948.

Reynolds, in turn, had bought the collection in 1945 from Dr. Ellsworth Eliot Jr., New York physician and surgeon. Eliot had spent 50 years gathering the collection, but his fellow collectors never guessed its value, Newman said.

Reynolds became ill and died before he could examine the collection. It stayed in bank vaults until Newman got a chance to see it early this year.

He said the collection "rivals some of the major institutional col-

Poston Says History Of Area Reveals Why We Are Behind

IF YOU DIDN'T read Mr. Poston's remarks that were written into yesterday's Daily Register, dig out the day old paper and read it.

Mr. Poston is director of SIU's Community Development department and knows of which he speaks. His given names are Richard W.

He talked about community development here Tuesday night, and during his remarks he gave a history of southern Illinois which he says reveals a lot as to why we are a bit behind in development at the present time.

I believe it will be of interest to relate some of the things Mr. Poston said while delving into our history. Factors he brought up, he stated, are why we are like we are today.

To begin with, he said, southern Illinois was settled before the rest of the state—by a proud people who brought with them their southern ways of thinking and acting, with a culture which was high on tradition.

As a result, he continued, it was hard to inject new ideas into the communities and this part of Illinois began to lag behind. Most of the rest of the state, he said, was settled by persons from the industrial East instead of the South and they brought with them more progressive ideas.

Then coal was discovered and sweeping changes came about, he said. With the mining industry in full force, thousands of persons came into southern Illinois to get the good money the mining jobs offered. And in hurrying here, many took up their abode in sub-standard housing.

"These newcomers were different," Mr. Poston said. "They were not inferior, just different. They came here from different cultures."

In general, he said, the newcomers and the ones who had settled here first did not mix; they had almost nothing in common.

"Thus," he stated, "this was the beginning of a vast social cleavage—a split in the population. A spiral of community disorganization started."

The mines, he said, were operating with absentee capital and many of the investors had no or almost no interest in the area. The people weren't especially interested in civic progress and had little citizen's pride and this discouraged planning and the build-

Dulles Challenges Russia to Allow Free Elections in Kiwanis Talk

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles challenged Soviet leaders today to permit free elections in Russia and Eastern Europe if they really believe communism can win on its own merits.

"Violence is the classic and natural tactic of Soviet communism" as taught not only by Stalin but also by Lenin, Dulles said in a speech prepared for the 41st annual convention of Kiwanis International. The Soviets "would surely be tempted" to revert to violence if the free world let down its guard, Dulles warned.

"If communism is so good that, as its leaders say, others will freely accept it on its merits, why not give the first chance to those who know it best?" Dulles asked. Until free elections are permitted in Russia and Eastern Europe, Dulles said, the free peoples are entitled to presume that there is "something basically wrong" with the Communist system.

Dulles called Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev's speech denouncing Stalin "the most damning indictment of despotism ever made by a despot."

The main point in Khrushchev's speech, Dulles said, is that he exposed "the inability of the Soviet Communist system to liquidate its own evil leadership, because it was the evil leader who had the supreme power to liquidate others."

Dulles was even more critical of the Chinese Communist government. He said that while the Soviet leaders show some signs of hoping to avoid a repetition of Stalin's misrule, "not even this much gain is registered by the Chinese Communist Party . . ."

Dulles said the Chinese Communists have sought to "outdo Stalin in brutality." They have steadfastly refused to make a meaningful renunciation of force in international affairs, Dulles said.

The Kiwanis convention adjourns shortly after Dulles' speech. Nearly 14,000 delegates and their families attended.

Gen. Twining Leaves for Moscow to See Air Show

CONSTRUCTION OF ELDORADO TOWNSHIP HIGH SCHOOL ADDITION is now in full swing, with the principal work at present being excavations and dirt moving. The work shown in above picture is at site of addition to house industrial arts, agriculture and music departments. The addition will run north from the present gymnasium on ground formerly used as practice football field. The retaining walls in background butt against the cinder track. East of the site shown above will be constructed a new physical education building and gymnasium. It will be of the bowl type, with the playing floor below ground level. Excavation has also been started for the gym. The F. E. Holmes Construction Co. of Marion has the general building contract. Target date for completion of the $540,000 building program is September, 1957, a school official has stated. (Register Staff Photo)

U. S. Air Chief Hopes to Fly In Soviet Craft

Top Airmen Expect Russia to Go All-Out To Impress Visitors

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining left for Moscow today with the "hope" that he will get to fly in some new Russian airplanes during his visit.

The Air Force chief of staff and a roster of six general officers left the Washington National Airport in an Air Force DC6 transport. They headed for an air base in Europe en route to Moscow.

Twining said the party will spend 24 hours at the undesignated base and arrive in the Russian capital at about 4 p. m. local time on Saturday. The Twining plane will be accompanied from Berlin by a Russian navigator and radio operator.

Twining, who is going to Moscow on Russian invitation to see the June 24 air show, said that the Russians provided him with an "interesting" itinerary Wednesday night.

May Learn Something

The general said it was "clear in the itinerary that we will get out of the Moscow area."

Asked whether he expected to fly any Russian planes, he said that "I do not but I would like to ride in some."

Twining was asked whether he expected to learn something he did not previously know about Russian air power. He said "probably."

Some top airmen here expect the Russians to go all out in an effort to impress the American generals. And Russian-born Maj. Alexander Seversky, long-time exponent of strategic air power, is out with a prediction that the Soviets will show enough to "scare the free world out of its wits."

In contrast with previous years, the Russians showed little new stuff at their May Day displays this year, and it may be that they held back for the June 24 show.

While Twining is in no sense on a negotiating mission, military men said, he will press the "open skies" plan at every opportunity.

Eleven months ago at the Big Four Geneva "summit" conference Mr. Eisenhower put forth the scheme for mutual aerial inspection and exchange of arms data as a means of reducing fear of war.

According to Golconda city police investigation of the mishap is not complete and no arrests in the case so far have been turned over to State's Attorney H. G. Maynor, as a hit-and-run investigation is a state case.

A Test of Fair Play

Editorial — BY BRUCE BISSAI

If President Eisenhower should decide that his present illness does not alter his determination to run again, he himself is sure to suggest anew that his health is a legitimate issue in the 1956 campaign.

At all stages since his heart attack last year, he has presented the facts of his condition with complete candor. His able press secretary, James Hagerty, has been of tremendous assistance in telling the story.

One cannot conceive that the President would choose now to follow a less candid course.

Very likely, in the minds of some Americans, the questions of his fitness for a second term will seem more critical in the light of his recent abdominal operation.

That alone probably would not have aroused too much concern.
As has now been thoroughly emphasized, two Democratic presidential hopefuls, Adlai Stevenson and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, both have had major operations within the past year or so.

It is putting this illness back to back with the earlier heart ailment that provides the possible
impact on voters' minds.

Some Republican leaders already unfriendly toward Vice President Nixon's bid for renomination may argue that the new situation demands re-examination of his claims. They would perhaps contend that some independent voters shaken by the President's two illnesses might be reassured if a "less controversial" figure were chosen for his running mate.

At this moment, though, all indications are that Nixon still will be strongly favored for that spot
if the President goes ahead and runs.

However that may be, a good many Democrats appear ready to make more of the health factor than they intended when only
the heart attack was involved.

But they should have heard
enough from the voters by now
to realize that injudicious use of the health issue could easily backfire on them.

The President's showing in the spring primaries, his current rating in the opinion polls and all general political soundings indicate he is as popular as ever.

Undue stress on his illness could easily stir further broad sympathies.

Nor are comments likely to be well received which declare that the President's doctors are "politically motivated" when they say he can run again. There is no evidence the 13 doctors who consulted on his recent operation
were drawn from an approved Republican list.

Mr. Eisenhower's health is a campaign issue, yes. But it is an issue which his opponents must deal with as fairly and honestly as he does.

Reading the Crystal Ball

WHEN President Eisenhower
announced re-election on Feb.
29, a few political prophets blandly predicted this meant the Democratic nomination would go to Governor Harriman.

Their theory was that Adlai Stevenson and all others would refuse to make the race against so popular a President. They fixed on Harriman as a "sacrificial lamb" because his age (64)
makes a later run unlikely, and because he has money.

Well, Stevenson and the others
didn't accommodate this theory
by dropping out. And the other day, just before Mr. Eisenhower fell ill again, a handful of sages
were arguing exactly the reverse:

They said this time that Stevenson would get the nomination if the race were considered virtually hopeless, but that if the Democrats have a good chance somebody else will get it.

Folks, what month do you read
the prophets?

Anti-Inflation Measures Bring Brickbat Barrage

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Automobile and home building industries are taking the lead in criticizing the April 14 Federal Reserve banks' increase in discount
rates on loans to their member banks. But both industries are having a hard time proving that they have been hurt by the FRB
tight money policy.

General Motors President Har-
low M. Curcio declared recently that Federal Reserve's "very restrictive" current credit policy
was a major factor in reduced auto sales. But this last Federal Reserve rise in interest rates has not been passed on to GM customers, and no further increases are contemplated now.

The last increase in General Motors Acceptance Corp. interest rates was in December. Wholesale interest rates on loans to dealers were then advanced from 4 to 4 1/2 per cent. Retail financing charges were advanced at the same time by 50 cents—equivalent of one-half per cent—to 36 on each $100 borrowed by the new car purchaser. But this increase was made only in a few areas—not country-wide.

EVEN THOUGH the last FRB
interest raise has not been passed on, the point which Curcio makes is that a tight money policy goes right across the country, reduces business confidence and so retards consumer spending.

The Federal Reserve's answer to this philosophy is that if money
were made available to everyone
wanting a loan, the country would soon have runaway inflation.

The Washington angle is that the auto companies' present distress is largely their own fault for overselling the market last year.
And few buyers have a large enough equity in their cars at the end of a year to trade in every year.

Making much the same kind of argument as Curcio, President Joseph B. Haverstick of National Assn. of Homebuilders blames Federal Reserve policy for the recent downturn in new housing starts.

Pinned down by reporters, however, Haverstick admitted that a rising interest rate on mortgage
loans was not the most appreciable factor in any housing price rise.

FEDERAL HOUSING and Veterans Administration mortgage loan interest rates are fixed by law and have not advanced. They cover most of the new housing build.

The N. A. H. B. president reported some evidence that mortgage companies are being more selective in their loans. They are charging a higher discount rate to borrowers wanting low down payments and longer terms. But the increased costs of building
materials and labor and the greatly increased cost of land were admitted to be the principal causes of higher prices.

Furthermore, Haverstick admitted that sales might pick up at the end of this summer. Supply and ers were made by the following preachers: Rev. John Aud, Rev.

Rev. Earl Vaughn, and Rev. M.

the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Henn had as

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lockwood,

demand for new housing are now
about in balance. The vacancy
rate is just about stationary at 2.3
per cent. There is great interest reported in housing for new families and only a few areas are overbuilt.

SO IN JUMPING on Federal Reserve credit policies, the auto and housing industry leaders are judged in Washington as possibly whipping the wrong boy.

Actually, there is considerable misunderstanding on the Federal Reserve action. Adjustments in interest discount rates are not dictated from Washington. They are made in 12 separate Federal Reserve District cities. The board of each bank is required to meet every two weeks on interest rates.

The Federal Reserve Board of Governors, meeting in Washington, has power to veto actions of the 12 regional banks. But the last time Washington overruled a regional bank—Chicago—was in the 1920's. So all the talk about political pressure being applied to make the Federal Reserve change
its credit policy is meaningless.
The bank is completely independent.

Symington-for-President Boom Gains Strength In Democratic Party

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The Symington-for-president boom is beginning to make enough noise to be heard distinctly throughout the Democratic party.

Stuart Symington is the 55-year-
old junior senator from Missouri,
born in Massachusetts, reared
mostly in Maryland and a resident of the state he represents in Congress for fewer than the past dozen years.

He's completing the fourth year
of his first Senate term, a fact which makes more remarkable
the prominent position Symington
holds in 1956 Democratic presidential politics. The senator has been getting some of what are known as the political brags.

Former Air Secretary

His best piece of luck so far
was Truman administration service as assistant secretary of war
for air and, later, as first secretary of the separate Air Force.
Symington is as well grounded as any civilian on national defense in general and air defense in particular. He's chairman of a Senate subcommittee which has been investigating air defense policies
to the embarrassment of the Eisenhower administration.

That investigation will continue
right up to national convention
time, making campaign ammunition for whomever the Democrats
do nominate. It is Symington's
good luck again that the Democratic party is planning to make Eisenhower defense policies a major issue in the 1956 presidential campaign. The Senate Appropriations Committee put some fire
into that dispute Monday by voting to hike President Eisenhower's
air defense spending by a fat
$1.6 billion.

A Defense Expert

Most and perhaps all of Syming-
ton's congressional colleagues
probably would agree that the Senator from Missouri would be in the best position of any likely Democratic nominee to challenge President Eisenhower publicly on national defense.

Mr. Eisenhower was a glamorous, victorious general. Symington, however, was a top defense
administrative official. The spot
from which Symington viewed national defense had some advantages over the viewpoint of a man
in uniform.

Symington served briefly as chairman of the National Security Resources Board and was put in charge of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation after revelation of questionable practices there compelled President Truman to order a clean-up. The senator was a successful industrialist before coming to Washington.

Stevenson Leads Way

This background would not project Symington far into the 1956
presidential situation but for some unrelated situations. With the presidential primaries out of the way, Adlai B. Stevenson of Illinois
leads Kefauver, of Tennessee,
who successfully challenged Stevenson, was badly mauled in the primary stretch, especially in California. A good many practical politicians now count Kefauver as a possible vice presidential nominee, no more than that.

Gov. Averell Harriman, of New York, now is rated the No. 2 con-

Postpone Sesser Council Election

SESSER, Ill. — An election
to fill out the Sesser City Council has been postponed to July 17.
The election was to have been held Tuesday to select three councilmembers to replace those who resigned in May. However, an attorney advised the city there had not been enough notice of the election and it was postponed.

The Sesser City Council has not met since May 5 after the three councilmembers resigned because of disagreement with the city administration.

There are four candidates for the three council seats.

Powerful forces, including Mr.
Truman, apparently are at work
to block Stevenson's nomination.
Mr. Truman is counted among the Powerful forces — conservative

Southerners — are at work to stop Harriman. The governor is a so-called moderate Democrat, a 100 per cent Truman fair dealer.

If Stevenson and Harriman both
can be stopped for a series of convention ballots, the talk among practical politicians is that Sym-

To Tackle Tough Chore for NBC

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — Worthington
(Tony) Miner, one of TV's pioneer
producers, will tackle the roughest
job on NBC next month.

The chore: Biting into the enormous audience now held captive by CBS-TV's "The $64,000 Question."

During the last year, NBC-TV
has had little luck against the 64-
grand with its alternating drama
entries, "Armstrong Circle Theatre" and Fred Coe's "Playwrights
'56." This July 3, the network will replace the Coe show with another drama series, "Kaiser Aluminum Hour" with Miner in charge.

"The competition will be rough,"
conceded Miner today. "But a good drama series can find an audience. Drama is the most durable drawing card on TV—look at 'Studio One,' 'Kraft,' 'Robert Montgomery,' 'U. S. Steel,' 'Climax.'"

"And remember, we go on a half-hour before 'The $64,000
Question' which means that if the audience is impressed, they'll stay.
Of course, if we're weak, they'll just tune us out."

Miner, in TV since the diaper
days of 1939, was the man who molded "Studio One," "The Goldbergs" and "Toast of the Town."
In one season, 1949-50, he produced all three shows plus "Mr.
1. Magnation" and wrote 40 of the 44 scripts used on "Studio One."

This last season, Miner produced
"Medic" and "Frontier" for NBC-TV.

Shuman Says Boost

In Steel Prices Will

Put Squeeze on Farmers

SIoux CENTER, Iowa — Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation said Tuesday night that a boost in steel prices will mean
"another dose of the old cost-price
squeeze" for farmers.

Although the outcome of current
steel wage talks is still in doubt,
"the pattern of other settlements indicated that both (labor and management) will be in favor of steel products prices which will assure
a higher return to labor and higher returns to producers," Shuman said.

"The farmer, a big user of steel,
is faced with another dose of the old cost-price squeeze. What can he do to meet the situation? He has no choice except to make do with his old implements or find a substitute for steel.

Fall Drifter

THE STORY: Although Emmett
Cash tried to make an outlaw of Frank Ude the tall drifter parts company with Cash and rides to the Rafters C. This ranch is operated by Cash's half-sister Jean.
Frank finds her breaking a horse.

She spoke a swift command and a kid appeared. He was no older than 15, with both sleeves of his hickory shirt split at the elbows. "This is Alex Jacobs," she said. "Alex, switch his saddle to the black." She turned to Frank.
"There are only three hands. Tod
Drury is far too old to be of use.
You'll be foreman, if it means anything to you."

Her fear was forcing her to grasp
at final straws.

"My horses have been sold under Army contract—I'm to receive payment as I deliver. They, like my hands, have the habit of wandering off. The last bunch was a few weeks ago—and they haven't yet shown up at Fort McHenry."

She was talking about the horses
Emmett had stolen from her, then lost in the raid in the Signals. Nor-ring had her horses hidden on a pasture lot, according to Emmett.

He asked quietly, "You looking for your horses around the hills?"

"Never stopped riding, Frank.
But they operate under a very smooth system. They see me coming miles away and move the horses to another valley. They're rough men, not likely to give you a fair chance—but of course you understand that."

"I understand," he answered.
But he was thinking of the Cash-
town sheriff and the shot which had unhorsed one of the possemen.
"Unless I'm very much mistaken," Jean said with considerable

irony, "this isn't your first range fight. But the pay will have to wait until after we've delivered the horses."

He broke somewhat harshly into her words. "The pay can wait until I've earned it. You ought to have cattle on this range."

He caught the momentary annoyance that flashed across her face. He knew she had already gambled the beef, and lost it. She said, "I like horses better."

He shook his head. "Without cattle on that grass somebody will move in on you."

"I know what kind of a fight
I've got to make. It's not a comforting thought. Not with a kid and two men loyal because they loved my father, but too old for fighting now. I've got no right expecting you to come into it—
you have no stake."

Grating wheels in the carriage lane swung her on her toes. The yard was darkening by the second and now her eyelids squinted down as she tried to recognize the two in the buggy. The one holding the reins she had expected.
She tossed Frank a faint smile.

"He's the last one of my hands
—carried over from Dad's crew.
He and Tod Drury. Tod's too old to be lured away from the Rafters
by talk of wages, and Ricketty—
well, he wouldn't accept another outfit's pay either. Not even if somebody was crazy enough to make him an offer!"

Frank studied the two men on the seat closely. He had noticed the rig hitched before the store
in Cashtown, deciding now Ricketty
had been left behind by Jean to fetch supplies. There was a saddled horse trailing on its reins,
and Frank concluded the second man on the seat had overtaken
the buggy and Ricketty had invited him to share the seat. Jean said, somewhat annoyed, "It's Steve Norring."

He watched Norring come down
off the wagon seat; a tightly-knit,
slim man in dark broadcloth.

On the wagon's opposite side
Ricketty came down over the wheel
in a series of jerks and spasms,
a man bent nearly in half by rheumatism or some kindred ailment.
Ricketty had been aptly named.

Norring called sharply across the yard. "Who is the man with you, Jean?"

Jean gave him a tantalizing sort of smile. "This is Frank Ude. I've hired him as my foreman."

Norring drew a deep breath.
Frank could see him fighting for a better hold over himself. For an instant the gambler's mask
which his face held fell away.
He stood before Frank revealed
with considerably less stature.

"You can't do that, Jean," he murmured much more affably.
"You know who this man is? He shot a horse from under Chan-try's posse."

"Not quite," Frank put in mildly. "If you know who shot the posseman's horse why not tell her
the truth?"

"You were riding beside him!"
Norring argued. He was glaring at Frank now, his nostrils flaring
with anger.

"He's still my foreman. Better
not make any mistake about that, Steve."

Frank murmured, "Jean, if you'll step inside the house I'll throw Norring off Rafter C."

She shook her head stubbornly.
Her gaze remained on Norring.
"Steve, go in the parlor. You'll find me ready to settle this, if that's what you want."

Norring kept his glance on Frank, uncertainly. Jean unhitch-
ed the lead reins of Norring's
black, looping them to a ringed post set in the yard beside the porch. She called across her shoulder to Frank, "Tod will throw something together at the cook
shack."

It was her way of dismissing him
and letting him know she meant to settle with Norring.

Cook-Kibler Marriage Solemnized At McKinley Avenue Baptist Church

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kibler

In a candlelight service held Sunday, June 9, at 8:00 o'clock, at the McKinley Avenue Baptist church in Harrisburg, Miss Janet Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil L. Cook, became the bride of Bill Kibler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Kibler.

The Rev. J. D. McCarty officiated at the double-ring ceremony in the presence of a large group of relatives and friends of the two families. The arch, bedecked with greenery and white poms and two large baskets of gladioli, stood before a background of candelabra.

At the organ Mrs. Robert Keltner played a prelude of appropriate wedding music and the two traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied the soloist, Don Raymer, who sang "Because," "My Wonderful One" and, with the bride couple kneeling, "The Lord's Prayer" as a benediction.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in French imported lace over satin, fashioned with a lace portrait neckline and close fitting sleeves of French imported lace tapering to a point over the hand. The full waltz length skirt, attached to the fitted bodice of French chantilly lace, was of chantilly lace with two front panels of permanently pleated nylon tulle. A Juliet cap secured the veil of matching nylon tulle. A cascade of lilies, baby's breath, and stephanotis with white satin streamers formed the bridal bouquet.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Don Cook, Mr. Vernon, sister-in-law of the bride, as matron of honor. Mrs. Cook carried a cascade bouquet of yellow daisies and white poms tied with streamers of yellow satin to complement her mauve waltz length gown of crystallette with embroidered edging on the skirt. The embroidered mits and clip on the hat were of a matching color.

As ring bearer, Miss Trena Jo Kerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kerr, and cousin of the bride, was attired in a blue nylon net over satin floor length gown. She carried the wedding rings on a white satin pillow covered with lace. Her headdress was of pink sweet peas.

Attending the bridegroom was Bill Threest as best man with Don Cook and Jim Thomas serving as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cook chose a dress of beige eyelet with white accessories and pink daisies worn as a shoulder corsage. Mrs. Kibler, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue dress with navy accessories and also wore a shoulder corsage of pink daisies.

More than one hundred guests attended the reception held immediately following the ceremony in

William R. Taylor and his nephew, William Johnson, are leaving Monday for Frostburg, and Cumberland, Md., and will attend the wedding of a grandniece of Mr. Taylor at Cumberland, on June 30.

Mrs. J. R. Erkman and children of Dubuque, Iowa, returned to their home yesterday after a ten day visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell. While in Harrisburg, Mrs. Erkman and her brother, Ed T. Mitchell, attended the opening night of the Municipal Opera in St. Louis. Her son, Jimmy, has remained here for a longer stay with his grandparents.

Word was received by Mrs. Howard Bickel of this city today of the serious illness of Damon Todd, a former resident of Harrisburg, at the home of his youngest daughter, Mrs. John Cathcart in Evansville, Ind.

Miss Mary Ann McCue, Charles Joseph Lands Exchange Vows at Equality

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joseph Lands

To vows of a double ring ceremony, Miss Mary Ann McCue of Equality and Charles Joseph Lands of Harrisburg plighted their troth at nuptials Saturday afternoon, June 9, at one o'clock in the Equality Presbyterian church. The Rev. J. K. Gannett III officiated at the service held before the altar which was decorated with white mums and gladioli in a background of palms and centered with white lighted tapers in wrought iron candelabras. Mrs. Raymond Asbell was at the organ and Miss Mary Lea Williams sang "I Love You Truly" preceding the ceremony. Throughout the ceremony Mrs. Asbell played soft organ music.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. Ed. McCue of Equality and the late Mr. McCue, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lands of Harrisburg.

Given in marriage by A. M. Hetherington Sr., a cousin of her late father, the bride wore a lovely white street-length dress of embroidered faille which featured a 12 gored skirt that flared from an empire waistline. A matching bolero jacket was lined in aqua taffeta and served as the inspiration for her mail of honor's dress. The neckline of the jacket was designed from an Elizabethan collar and a bow accented the jacket closing. The bride also wore a white lace capulet hat and pastel pink sling pump slippers. She carried a purple-throated white orchid with flowing knotted white satin streamers atop a white testament. Miss Edna T. McCue served her sister as maid of honor. She was attired in a white lace dress lined in aqua taffeta. Cummerbund and semi-bustle of matching taffeta accented the sheath dress. Matching aqua shoes and capulet hat completed her costume. The maid of honor carried a colonial bouquet of pink daisies, roses and carnations.

Charles E. Tucker of Harrisburg, a long time friend of the bridegroom, was best man, and Roger A. Vater of Ridgway and Joe K. Gannett IV of Equality served as ushers.

Mrs. McCue chose a pink linen dress with panels of matching lace for her daughter's wedding while Mrs. Lands wore a navy crepe dress with a lace inset at the neckline. Both mothers wore a corsage or pink roses.

A reception at the bride's country home immediately followed the ceremony. From a table decorated with pink roses and painted daisies Mrs. Willard Perkins, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. J. K. Gannett III served the three tiered wedding cake. Miss Ruth Anne Morris poured punch from a matching decorated side table.

When the couple departed on their honeymoon to the South, the bride was wearing a pastel pink and grey striped dress with gold

Officials Deny Bikini, Eniwetok Are Uninhabitable

WASHINGTON AP — Officials denied today that radio-active fall-out from nuclear tests has made Eniwetok and Bikini atolls uninhabitable.

They agreed, however, that the original Marshallese residents will not be going back to Eniwetok and Bikini. The atolls long since have been used by the United States as a permanent atomic proving ground.

A United Nations report issued Tuesday was interpreted in New York as meaning the natives couldn't go back because of radioactivity.

That is not the case. The atolls at this moment are inhabited by some 13,500 American scientists, service men, technicians, and workers who are no more immune to atomic radiation than anybody else.

As one official put it, the bulldozer and the concrete mixer have done far more than radiation to make the atolls useless to the natives. Practically all of Eniwetok Island at Eniwetok atoll has, for example, been cleared of palm and pandanus trees, both important to the Marshallese economy. It has been converted into an airstrip with auxiliary facilities for the joint task force which conducts weapons tests at the proving grounds every two years or so.

The same is true of Enyu Island, control center for tests at Bikini atoll. Ten years ago Enyu was a palm and pandanus jungle. Today it has only a few trees left, those few concentrated at the upper end.

accents and matching pink accessories. Her going away corsage was the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Lands are now at home in Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service

BLIND men grope their way through eternally darkened streets because someone failed in his human responsibilities. Cripples move uncertainly on their crutches or artificial limbs because someone lost his temper. Murderers have been committed because people lost their sense of values.

Souls have been lost because men shut God out of their lives. Someone will say there is no excuse for an unruly temper, or for a moment of thoughtless destruction. Others argue that honor and restitution and the payment of penalties must be maintained.

There probably was not much justification for the killing of millions of people in war, and for the hanging of a man on a cross 2,000 years ago. In retrospect, a lot of destruction has been caused, much grief has occurred, and an abundance of suffering has developed because tempers have flared.

It is strange that we are so much the slaves of hatred and so-called justice that we cannot allow reason and love to delay impulsiveness until God can show us better ways.

If there were ever cause for punishment it was when an innocent Son of God was killed on Calvary, but God did not smite a single person. He allowed the eternal conscience of man to create more justice than restitution could have developed.

New Pasteurization Law For Illinois Dairymen Will Be in Effect July 1

By United Press
Illinois dairymen may have to watch milk production more closely when a new pasteurization law becomes effective July 1.

The 1955 Legislature ordered that almost all milk sold for human consumption has to be pasteurized. It gave the State Public Health Department the job of enforcing the law.

Deputy Health Director B. K. Richardson said the law directs that milk sold for human consumption be pasteurized unless the dairyman can meet three alternate requirements:

1. Cows are free of tuberculosis and brucellosis
2. The bacteria count of the milk is less than 50,000 per milliliter.
3. The milk is free of sediment.

Requires Sanitary Conditions
When the milk is sold on the premises, and not delivered, the bacteria count requirement does not apply.

"The exception was designed primarily to prevent undue hardship on the small milk producer," he said.

Richardson said another 1955 law, effective July 1, 1957, which will require all milk sold for human consumption to meet "Grade A" standards, in effect makes the pasteurization law a "stop gap" measure.

The Grade A requirements include pasteurization.

However, State Agriculture Director Stillman J. Stanard said the law which takes effect next month requires Grade A standards, in effect.

May Halt Some Sales
"The law may force some farmers who sell milk from a few cows to stop such sales," he said.

"It may not be worthwhile for them to build adequate milk house and install modern milk processing equipment because of the expense involved," he said.

Stanard said such milk probably would be diverted to manufacturers of cheese and other dairy foods, who have facilities to process it to meet health requirements.

The 1955 Legislature also enacted a law requiring the butterfat content of milk to be at least 3.5 per cent, compared to 3 per cent previously. It became effective last year.

Another law requires all herds producing milk for human consumption to be under a brucellosis control program effective July 1,

Simplicity in Furniture Lines Dominates Show

CHICAGO — Simplicity and straight lines dominated exhibits at the International Home Furnishings Market today.

There were few signs of the heavily ornamented pieces characteristic of the early 1920s at the semi-annual show which opened Monday.

Buyers from around the world are attending the 10-day show. Its theme is "transition."

The transition from old styles to ultra modern is taking many forms but one thing is apparent: Gimmicks are out.

"People just don't want unnecessary ornamentation on their furniture any more," Ben Muller, sales manager of the Imperial Furniture Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., said. "Everything on a piece must now have a definite reason for being there."

Imperial is showing a 6-foot cocktail table, made of walnut but framed in brass.

"We're finding that a recent trend toward larger lamps is resulting in a current demand for bigger tables," Muller observed. "Darker finishes are also being well received this year but the trend is definitely away from cheap ornamentation."

In line with the recent influx of cocktail tables, Slight of Grand Rapids has come out with a table that combines features of both cocktail and dining furniture. It has folding leaves and a lever to adjust its height. Slight also has a table whose height can be regulated by a motor.

Italian provincial and contemporary appeared to be the most popular styles in furniture gauged to medium-high and upper-priced pricebooks. But the majority of pieces still are designed with the average person foremost in mind.

Old Painting Rescued From Public Dump

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — What may be a 600-year-old art treasure has been rescued from a public dump.

Dan Allen, a city laborer, found the old painting just as it was about to be consumed by fire at the municipal dump.

Investigation disclosed that the painting came from the collection of the late George Harold Egde, former director of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. It is believed to have been painted around 1369 by an early Italian Renaissance artist.

Sunday evening, June 17, brought to a close the two weeks Vacation Bible School at the Methodist Church in Carrier Mills.

A display of handiwork was on exhibit in the church basement at 6:45. Becky Meyer headed the school as they marched in for the program. She carried a white

Bible which she placed on the altar. Following her were the flag bearers, Jim Stearns and Frank Shelton. The flag salutes were led by Terry Van Meter and Cletus Davis.

Each department of the school also enjoyed a picnic Friday. The juniors and intermediates went to Karel Park, the primary group to the Community Park, with the kindergarten group staying at the church.

Plant to Reopen with Employees Willing to Work Free for Month

SHELBYVILLE, Ind. (U)—The Spiegel Furniture Co. will go back into production in two weeks with employees who are willing to work for nothing.

The workers' offer to man the factory for free is only good for a month.

But their grateful boss, William S. Spiegel, hopes that will give him enough time to get the 67-year-old firm back on its feet.

Local businessmen are also helping out. Creditors will supply the firm with materials and wait until sales begin again before they ask for their money. Grocers have expressed willingness to provide extended credit for the Spiegel workers.

Spiegel's company had been operating at a loss for several years. Last February, he threw in the sponge and announced that lack of working capital was forcing him to close down. The factory's 125 employees were out of work.

The workers took things into their own hands. Early in March, they summoned Spiegel to the plant. He walked through a snowstorm and found 52 of his employees waiting for him.

They told him they were ready to go back to work for a month on their own time. All Spiegel had to do was get the factory open again.

The factory owner went to work. He got a 50-thousand-dollar loan from the Small Business Administration. Local sale of stock netted him 15 thousand dollars more.

This week, five men went back to work at the furniture factory. Spiegel said a full force of 60 will be at work and the factory should be hitting full production within two weeks.

Most of the Spiegel employees have been getting by on unemployment insurance. That will continue to be their mainstay until Spiegel can pay them. But he is determined to make it up to them later through a stock sharing plan or some other arrangement.

"If they're loyal enough to pull me out of this situation, they damn well deserve to own part of the company," he said.

Leary Declines Appointment

WASHINGTON (U)—The Capitol was all set today to receive Joseph J. Leary as a new senator. But Leary won't be going to the Capitol.

Leary, appointed to sit in the Senate for the late Alben W. Barkley (D-Ky.), Wednesday declined the appointment made by Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

Senate aides said a brass plate, bearing Leary's name, already had been attached to what would have been his desk.

Copies of the Senate manual (rules), a Congressional Directory, and other documents were to be delivered today—with his name embossed in gold. Roll call tally sheets carrying Leary's name have been ordered from the Government Printing Office.

Senate records disclosed that Leary's "no-thank-you" is unusual but not unprecedented. In 1913, Henry D. Clayton of Alabama, appointed to succeed Joseph H. Johnston, became the center of a dispute over whether the Alabama

AL ADAMS, ELDORADO HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC DIRECTOR, displays some of his choice rhubarb. Adams and his father, Jack Adams, have two acres of the plants, which make a delicious food and especially tasty pies. The stalks are carefully pulled from the plant and new stalks are reproduced in a short time. Plants, such as those seen in the above picture, will produce as much as 10 pounds of rhubarb in a season, Adams says.

Looking at Sports

BY BILL MELTON

All you sports fans have seen coaches engage in a "rhubarb" with the officials—that is disagree with the officials' decisions.

Well, Eldorado high school coach Al "Bozo" Adams is no different in that respect. He disagrees every now and then.

But Adams is unusual in that he continues to "rhubarb" after the high school season is over. He then goes in for the commercial growing of rhubarb. He and his father, Jack Adams, have two acres of rhubarb plants. That is approximately 8,000 of the plants that are often called "pie plant."

A couple of days ago I met Adams and during our conversation asked "What are you doing this summer Bozo?" He answered,

"Not much of anything other than working my rhubarb." Not knowing about his profitable summer time vacation, I asked for more details and it ended up with the two of us going to his home about a block east of the ETHS where one acre of the rhubarb is growing. The other acre is at his father's home on the Old Broughton Road.

Back of his house Adams proudly pointed out the one acre field and explained that last year more than four tons of the plant were sold on the market, with the Kroger company buying a ton at one time.

Near the field is a shed where the plants are trimmed, washed, weighed and packed. At wholesale the rhubarb is sold at 12½ cents a pound and so far this year the Adams have sold 1,500 pounds and will have at least that much more for sale.

"The crop isn't as good this year as last," Adams said. He added that about half of the plants were three years old and that he planned to reset the old plants after this year's crop is over. He hasn't been in the business long enough to know for sure, but is of the opinion that the plants only bear on a paying basis for three years.

He also has about half the field in first year plants and expects a bumper crop from them in 1957.

Rhubarb is grown by setting out roots. The Adams get their roots in Michigan and the rhubarb they grow is known as Giant Victoria.

It sure looks good and I expect to know just how it tastes in a day or so. Think the rhubarb I brought home will be in a couple of pies before the end of the week.

Yes, Al Adams at Eldorado may engage in an occasional "rhubarb" during the football and basketball seasons, but he makes rhubarb pay off during the summer.

Received a "Greeting from Texas" in the mail Wednesday. Darwin Valter of Ridgway, who coached at Shawneetown high school this past school term, is attending law school this summer at Austin, Texas, and sent The Daily Register sports department greetings from the "Big State."

Tom Gher, native of Golconda, will be head football coach at Metropolis high school this coming year. Gher, a graduate of Southern Illinois University and SIU football letter winner, began his coaching career at Goreville and later was Junior high school coach at Carbondale.

He succeeds John Evers, who resigned at Metropolis after one year.

Earlier this year Metropolis hired Claude Shelton, who coached basketball at Carrier Mills for three years, for the cage coach. Gher will assist Shelton in basketball and Shelton will assist Gher in football. Gher will also be track coach and Shelton will handle the baseball team.

Mickey Mantle Hits Two Homers to Go 18 Games Ahead Babe Ruth's Record

By United Press
Mickey Mantle went 18 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record home run pace today in what is now the greatest assault any player ever has made on the mark.

Mantle connected twice in the New York Yankees' 4-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night to increase his total to 27 in 60 games. Ruth didn't hit No. 27 until the Yankees' 78th game in 1927. Because Ruth closed that season with 17 homers in September it is not too unusual for a player "to be ahead of Babe's pace" at this stage of the race.

But Mantle's current pace also is faster than the two sluggers who came closest to the mark—Poxh had 29 homers at the end of June—a figure Mantle should easily top in the next 10 days—while Greenberg had hit "only" 24 on June 30 1938. Both wound up with 38 homers.

Yanks—Seventh Straight

With Mantle adding two drives into the center field stands at Briggs stadium, the Yankees equalled the current season high by rolling to their seventh straight victory. Johnny Kucks received credit for his ninth win although Whitey Ford took over in the eighth and finished up. Billy Hoelt suffered his fourth loss compared to eight triumphs.

The Chicago White Sox remained 5 1-2 games behind the Yankees when they outslugged the Baltimore Orioles, 12-8, in a three-hour and 37 minute struggle. The White Sox overcame an early 4-0 deficit to slug seven Baltimore pitchers for 15 hits including a homer by Larry Doby. It was the White Sox' sixth triumph in seven games.

Al Rosen singled home Bobby Avila in the 13th inning to give the Cleveland Indians a 5-4 edge over the Boston Red Sox, after Gene Woodling tied the score with an eighth-inning homer. Herb Score struck out 10 batters in six innings to reach the 100-mark for the season but relief pitcher Don Mossi was credited with the win. Tom Hurd was the losing pitcher.

The Washington Senators scored three runs on only one hit in the eighth and ninth innings to beat the Kansas City Athletics, 5-4. Connie Grob won his second game for the Senators while Troy Herriage suffered his sixth loss.

Braves Take NL Lead

In the National league, the Milwaukee Braves remained unbeaten under Fred Haney and took over first place when they beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3. Gene Conley went the route for the first

Pickford's and Pirates Win Kiwanis Tilts

By David Nelson

Pickford's Tigers edged the Social Brethren team, 6-5, and the Pirates scuttled the Reds, 26-2, in Kiwanis league baseball games played Wednesday.

Bob Pavelonis pitched a four-hitter and blasted a long triple to lead Pickford's to a 6-5 win over Social Brethren. With one out in the last of the seventh and the score tied, 5-5, Pavelonis blasted the ball 300 feet down the left field line which was stopped from being a homer by a magnificent heave by Yarbber from deep left to third base. Pavelonis then scored on an infield ground ball by Pickford to win the game.

The winners tallied two runs in the second and one each in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings on 10 base hits and four errors. The losing Social Brethren team scored two in the first, two in the fourth and one in the sixth on four safeties, six errors and two hit batsmen.

For Pickford's at the plate, Pavelonis, Stricklin and Hefner hit safely twice and Wasson, Pickford, Biggs and Collins picked up a hit apiece. Price had two hits and Carmen and Carnett hit safely once. Stricklin was the losing pitcher.

The Howton boys led the Pirates in another high scoring game as they beat the Reds, 26-2. Stanley Howton had a home run and three singles and scored six runs, and his brother pitched a four-hitter for the Pirates. Also getting hits for the winners were Morgan with a home run, a double and a single, Craver with a home run and two doubles, and M. Howton and Vick with a single each. For the Reds at bat, Bow-an singled three times and Gardner had one safe blow. Hansen was the losing pitcher.

Bob Satterfield Beats Sixth-Ranked Johnny Summerlin

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Satterfield's victory over sixth-ranked heavyweight Johnny Summerlin makes him either a logical claimant to the light heavyweight title or a challenger for the heavy weight crown, his manager, Ike Bernstein, contended somewhat illogically today.

"We'll fight anybody," he said. "If they won't give us a chance in that heavyweight eliminations, we'll claim the light heavyweight title."

"There's nobody to beat us out of it, and we can make 175 pounds."

Satterfield, though beaten 21 times in his 66 fight career, weighed only 183 pounds Wednesday night, but overcame Summerlin, 24 years old and 194 pounds, handily. It was Summerlin's fifth loss in 37 pro fights and ended a 12 fight winning streak.

"I got careless and got knocked down," Summerlin said. "Then I got it in my head that he could punch and got cautious and that cost me the fight."

Summerlin, knocked through the ropes by a right hand and then a two-handed barrage in the third round, apparently was saved from a knockout when the bell rang at the count of seven.

Then he stressed defense until the seventh when he began to carry the fight to Satterfield with success.

Satterfield bruised the knuckles on his index and middle fingers badly in the third round, and he believed that cost him a knockout win.

Local Teen-Age All-Stars Lose To Eldorado, 6-5

In a thrilling baseball game at the VFW park last night Eldorado defeated Harrisburg, 6-5. The contest was between teen-age all stars of both cities.

The Eldorado teen-agers led off in the first with one run when Hassett singled, stole two bases and scored on a wild pitch. The local teen-agers came right back and scored four runs in their half of the first on some heavy slugging. Stone tripled, Aldridge doubled, Pickford doubled, Vick singled, and King tripled.

Jim Molinarolo, pitching for Eldorado, then settled down and allowed only two more singles in the remainder of the game.

Ray Hassett, Eldorado catcher, was the hero of the game with his catching, and he also collected two of Eldorado's three hits off Hurley King, Harrisburg pitcher.

The deciding play of the game was in the top of the seventh when, with two men on base, King was intentionally passing Hassett to fill the bases, and with a count of two balls, Hassett changed over and started batting left-handed and smashed a double to left center to drive two runs, and win the game.

Ronnie Vick was King's battery mate. Karnes' all-stars defeated Wunderlich's all-stars, 6-3, in a preliminary game, which was enjoyed by the fans of both teams.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Albert (Buck) Krouse, 65, former middleweight boxer who fought 175 fights from 1908 to 1919 and met such opponents as Tommy Gibbons, Les Darcy, and Harry Greb, was found dead in a hotel room here Wednesday. Death was believed due to a heart attack.

About Town And Country

ing up of our resources.

Then he told of the eras of violence when, he said, whole communities were shattered.

"Thousands learned to hate each other and work against each other," he commented. "Later the violence ceased and bitterness diminished but the scars were still there.

"Next the mines began to close and almost overnight the economy of southern Illinois collapsed.

"Without citizen unity or maturity, the people were unable to meet the crisis, and here was an entire region where civic spirit had never grown. So an attitude of defeat and futility spread and this turned into a cultural inferiority complex."

He told how this history had affected the area today, with the big public assistance load, lower teachers' salaries and other things on the deficit side. He said the area has a reputation of labor turmoil, but defended this by saying that there was a much better labor record in southern Illinois than in other parts of the country.

That was the story, in essence, he told of the past factors that resulted in our economy of today. And today, he said, we must first get our houses in order before we can do very much toward getting industry to come into the area.

Humphreys, who is chairman of the Democratic State Central Executive Committee, accepted the appointment, and plans to leave for Washington on Saturday.

Chandler said he had not planned to move so hastily, but he had been notified by Senate officials that there will be an important defense bill to be voted on Monday, and that it was important for Kentucky to have both senators there to vote on it.

Humphreys, 61, has been chairman of the State Democratic State Central Executive Committee for the last 12 years and currently was serving his second term as state highway commissioner.

Summer's Here, But Has Worn Out Welcome

By United Press
Summer made its official arrival today, but it had already worn out its welcome in much of the nation. A marathon heat wave burned through its second week in much of the country east of the continental divide. The forecast was for more hot, humid weather on the first day of summer.

Millions of Americans, subjected to a succession of cold and heat waves, wondered whatever happened to spring.

Summer checked in officially at 6:24 a. m. EDT, the moment the sun reaches its northernmost point over the northern hemisphere and heads south again.

Summer storms broke the midlands heat in some areas, but they brought scant and temporary relief.

A weak cold front pushed its way down through Wisconsin towards northern Illinois, setting off damaging thunderstorms Wednesday night. Water was reported standing in the streets at Fond Du Lac, Wis., and trees and power lines were down.

Trees were ripped up by their roots at El Dorado, Wis., and Milwaukee and Ripon were also hard hit.

Elsewhere, the temperature travelled to 101 at Miles City, Mont., Wednesday and there were 100-degree readings from the Southwest Desert northward into Kansas. Farther east, temperatures averaged in the high 80's, but the humidity made it feel worse.

In contrast, a chilly rain fell on New York City. It was 50 degrees at Grand Marais, Mich., and an unsummersy 27 at Eagle, Colo.
